Labor chief forecasts job losses

By Bruce A. Gray
and Inquirer Staff

IF COMPANIES CONTINUE to shed jobs at the present rate, the government may be looking at 200,000 jobless workers in six months, according to the Department of Labor and Employment (DOLE).

DOLE officials said that recent statistics from their own set of data show that about 30,000 jobs were lost in January alone, compared to 20,000 in December.

Labor Secretary Manuel Legaspi said the labor secretary must focus on the government's role in the economy, not on the number of laid-off workers.

He said that the government must focus on the quality of the jobs created, not on the number of laid-off workers.

Youth and change

MANY THINGS ABOUT THE PHILIPPINE YOUTH have changed since the 1960s. The youth of the 1960s were more idealistic, more passionate, more committed to the cause of social justice. They were more willing to risk their lives for the cause of their country.

Today's youth are more pragmatic, more realistic, more concerned with their own future. They are more interested in material things, in money, in power, in status. They are less idealistic, less passionate, less committed to the cause of their country.

But there is one thing that has not changed. The youth of the Philippines are still the most vibrant, the most energetic, the most creative. They are still the most willing to risk their lives for the cause of their country. They are still the most committed to the cause of social justice. They are still the most passionate about their country.

Cascading idiocy

JOSE E. MENDOZA

The Philippines is a country of cascading idiocy. It is a country where the government is a joke, where the people are a joke, where the economy is a joke, where the culture is a joke, where the society is a joke, where the future is a joke. It is a country where everything is a joke, where nothing is real, where nothing matters, where nothing counts. It is a country where the only thing that is real is the joke, where the only thing that matters is the joke, where the only thing that counts is the joke.

Sri Lanka troops take last rebel stronghold

COLOMBO, Sri Lanka (UPI)—Sri Lankan troops have taken the last major rebel stronghold in the north of the island, ending a 15-year civil war. The government forces, led by the army, entered the town of Jaffna on Jan. 19, after a long and bloody battle. The town had been the headquarters of the Liberation Tigers of Tamil Eelam (LTTE), the main rebel group. The LTTE leader, Velupillai Prabhakaran, fled to the sea. The government forces are now moving into the rest of the north. The civil war had caused the deaths of about 60,000 people and the displacement of millions. The government had been fighting to reunify the island, while the rebels sought a separate state for the Tamil minority.

Mood not bullish as China greets Year of the Ox

BEIJING, China (UPI)—The Chinese government is not optimistic about the economic prospects for the Year of the Ox. Officials say the country's economy is still in a state of stagnation, and that the government is facing a difficult task of reforming the economy. The government has announced a series of measures to stimulate growth, but these have not yet had a significant impact. The mood in the country is one of cautious optimism, but many people are still skeptical about the government's ability to achieve its goals. The government is also facing a series of challenges, including a rise in inflation and a shortage of foreign exchange. Despite these challenges, the government remains committed to its reform program and hopes to achieve a more prosperous and stable economy in the coming years.

BBJ refuses to air Gaza ad

TEL AVIV, Israel (UPI)—The Broadcasting Board of Jewish Affairs (BBJA) has refused to air a television advertisement for the Gaza Strip. The ad, which was produced by a group of Israeli citizens, depicted the suffering of the Palestinian people in Gaza and called for an end to the occupation. The BBJA, which is responsible for the public broadcasting system in Israel, said that the ad was too inflammatory and did not meet the standards for public broadcasting. The group that produced the ad said that it was disappointed by the BBJA's decision and that it would continue to work for the liberation of Gaza. The ad was shown on private television channels in Israel.

France, Spain deal with storm aftermath

PARIS, France (UPI)—France and Spain are dealing with the aftermath of a severe storm that hit the Iberian Peninsula last night. The storm caused significant damage to infrastructure and resulted in several deaths. In France, the storm hit the southwestern coast, causing flooding and landslides. In Spain, the storm hit the northern coast, causing damage to buildings and power lines. Both countries are now working to assess the damage and provide aid to the affected areas. The storm was the result of a low-pressure system that moved from the Atlantic Ocean into the Mediterranean. The weather service in both countries is warning of more storms in the coming days.

Chicago mob bosses head to prison

CHICAGO, Ill. (UPI)—Two of the most powerful Chicago mob bosses have been sentenced to prison. The men, who were part of the famous Chicago Outfit, were found guilty of racketeering and conspiracy. The Outfit was a powerful criminal organization that controlled much of the city's underworld. The two men, who were both in their 60s, were sentenced to life in prison. The judge in the case said that the men were the most powerful and ruthless of the Outfit's leaders. The case is part of a larger effort by the FBI and local law enforcement to dismantle the Outfit. Other members of the Outfit are also being investigated and charged with various crimes. The case has caused a significant impact on the city's underworld and is seen as a major victory for law enforcement.

T-bill rates slide across the board

By Bernard B. Calangui

The yield on Treasury bills has fallen across the board, with the shortest-term bills seeing the steepest decline. The 4-week bill, for example, fell from 4.5 percent to 4.25 percent, while the 13-week bill dropped from 4.75 percent to 4.5 percent. The 26-week bill fell from 4.875 percent to 4.625 percent, and the 52-week bill fell from 5.0 percent to 4.75 percent. The decline in yields reflects the Fed's continued efforts to ease monetary policy in response to the economic challenges facing the country.

Fragrances for a cause

By Alex C. Ferguson

DURING THE 1970s, 1980s and 1990s, the fragrance industry was a major force in the fashion world. It was a time when fragrances were not just a luxury, but a necessity. They were a way to express oneself, to stand out from the crowd. And they were a way to connect with others. In the 2000s, the fragrance industry has become even more important. It is now a multi-billion dollar industry, and it is still growing. This is because fragrances are no longer just a luxury, but a necessity. They are a way to express oneself, to stand out from the crowd. And they are a way to connect with others.

One of the reasons why fragrances are so important is because they are a way to express oneself. In the 1970s, 1980s and 1990s, fragrances were a way to stand out from the crowd. They were a way to express oneself, to show the world who you were. In the 2000s, fragrances have become even more important. They are now a multi-billion dollar industry, and they are still growing. This is because fragrances are no longer just a luxury, but a necessity. They are a way to express oneself, to stand out from the crowd. And they are a way to connect with others.

Ginger tea helps ease arthritis, headache and indigestion

By JESSICA MUIR
Ginger tea, also known as ginger ale, is a popular beverage that has been shown to have a variety of health benefits. It can help ease arthritis, headache, and indigestion. The active ingredient in ginger is gingerol, which has anti-inflammatory properties. This makes it a good choice for people with arthritis, as it can help reduce pain and swelling. Ginger tea can also help with headaches, as it can relax the muscles in the head and neck. Finally, ginger tea can help with indigestion, as it can stimulate the digestive system and help with nausea.

How to make ginger tea
To make ginger tea, you will need fresh ginger root, water, and honey. Peel the ginger root and cut it into thin slices. Boil the slices in water for 10-15 minutes. Strain the tea and add honey to taste. You can also add lemon juice for extra flavor.

Other benefits of ginger
In addition to its effects on arthritis, headache, and indigestion, ginger has been shown to have other health benefits. It can help with colds and flu, as it can boost the immune system. It can also help with menstrual cramps, as it can reduce inflammation. Finally, ginger can help with weight loss, as it can increase metabolism.

Precautions
While ginger is generally safe, there are some precautions to take. People with gallstones should avoid ginger, as it can stimulate the gallbladder. People taking blood thinners should also avoid ginger, as it can increase the risk of bleeding. Finally, people with diabetes should monitor their blood sugar levels when drinking ginger tea, as it can lower blood sugar.

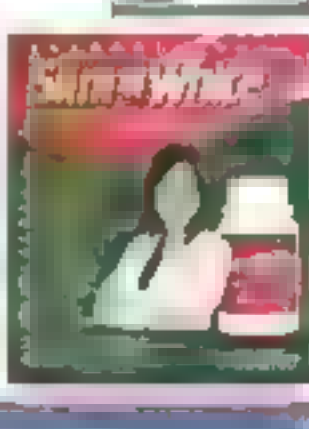

Conclusion
Ginger tea is a healthy and delicious beverage that can help with a variety of health issues. It is a good choice for people with arthritis, headache, and indigestion. It can also help with colds and flu, menstrual cramps, and weight loss. However, there are some precautions to take when drinking ginger tea, so it is important to consult with a doctor if you have any health concerns.
